Annual Review of Academic Progress of Graduate Students: Student

Graduate Program in Biomedical Sciences

In this annual review report, the student, major professor and guidance committee shall assess the student's progress toward degree and career objectives over the past year. The student and major professor should establish a plan of work and set milestones or goals for the next year in consultation with the student’s guidance committee. Students should meet with their guidance committee at least once per year. All members of the student’s guidance committee must sign this progress report. An up-to-date curriculum vitae should be submitted with this report. Deadline: September 1 of each year in the program.
